

One of the most exciting things to do online is book a holiday. You can either find all the bits yourself or find a package.

Comparing Holidays

There are many sites that compare different holiday prices. Travel Supermarket (Code 1) and Expedia (Code 2) are two famous ones. If you do a search on Google, you can find many more!

Booking directly

If you can find the website of the hotel or airplane company you wish to book with, you can probably book directly with them. However, there are also sites that allow you to find and book hotels. Code 3 links to Booking.Com, the biggest of these sites.

Leaving Feedback

Many travel agents, venues and resorts encourage you to leave feedback after your visit. You can also check out TripAdvisor (Code 4), an independent site. But be aware, some people have specific tastes or leave malicious feedback. So check several reviews and see what other reviews the person giving the feedback has left elsewhere.

Safety First

Remember that many companies sell holidays and not all of them are safe. Check they are ATOL protected, as well as the feedback and security of the site before you buy.
